Places to Visit in Warangal

Heritage, culture and nature around Warangal

Bhadrakali Temple

• The temple is situated between Hanamkonda and Warangal, beside Bhadrakali Lake.
• It is dedicated to Goddess Bhadrakali and is traditionally associated with the Chalukya period.
• The principal image depicts the goddess seated with eight arms holding symbolic weapons.
• The temple and its lakeside setting make it an important spiritual and cultural landmark in the city.
• Festivals and special worship days attract devotees from Warangal and surrounding districts.

Thousand Pillar Temple

• Also known as Sri Rudreshwara Swamy Temple, it stands at the base of Hanamkonda hill.
• It was built in the 12th century during the reign of Kakatiya ruler Rudra Deva.
• The temple is a Trikutalayam, with shrines dedicated to Shiva, Vishnu and Surya.
• Intricately carved pillars, stone screens and detailed sculptural work are major features.
• A large monolithic Nandi is one of the prominent attractions within the complex.

Fort Warangal

• Warangal Fort is a major archaeological landmark associated with the Kakatiya dynasty.
• Its development is associated with Kakatiya rulers, including Ganapati Deva and Rani Rudrama Devi.
• The four monumental stone gateways, known as Kakatiya Kala Thoranams, are its most recognizable feature.
• Remains of fortifications, gateways and temple structures reveal the scale of the former capital.
• The site is an important place to understand the political and architectural history of medieval Telangana.

Khush Mahal

• Khush Mahal is a historic structure located close to the Warangal Fort complex.
• It is generally dated to the Tughlaq period, around the 14th century.
• The building is characterized by a large central hall and prominent arched openings.
• Its sloping walls and robust masonry distinguish it from the nearby Kakatiya stone gateways.
• It offers visitors another layer of Warangal’s history beyond the Kakatiya monuments.

Heritage, culture and nature around Warangal

Ramappa Temple

• Officially known as the Ramalingeswara Temple, it is located at Palampet near Warangal.
• It was constructed in 1213 CE under the Kakatiya ruler Ganapati Deva, with the sculptor Ramappa remembered in its name.
• The temple is renowned for its detailed sandstone and sculptural decoration.
• Lightweight porous bricks were used in parts of the superstructure and are traditionally noted for their buoyancy.
• The Kakatiya Rudreshwara (Ramappa) Temple was inscribed on the UNESCO World Heritage List in 2021.

Laknavaram Lake

• Developed as a reservoir during the Kakatiya period, the lake supports irrigation in nearby villages.
• It is known for its broad water spread, wooded hills and peaceful natural setting.
• A long suspension bridge connecting the lake’s islands is one of its best-known sights.
• Boating and lakeside recreation are popular visitor activities when facilities are operating.
• The lake is especially scenic in the early morning and around sunset.

Sammakka Saralamma Temple

• The shrine is associated with the revered tribal mother deities Sammakka and Saralamma.
• It is closely connected with the story and traditions of the Koya community.
• The Medaram Jatara, held periodically, is one of the largest tribal religious gatherings in the region.
• Devotees travel from across Telangana and neighbouring states to participate in the festival.
• The site is an important destination for understanding the region’s living tribal traditions.
